

Voices from the Margins

WHAT CAN BAPTISTS LEARN FROM THE EMERGENT CHURCH

A day conference for church leadership teams with Dr. Stuart Murray Williams, church planting and emergent church consultant, looking at what Baptist Churches can learn from the Emergent Church Movement in relation to mission, community and worship.

Thursday 8th October 2009

10am—4pm

Melton Mowbray Baptist Church,
Leicester Road,
Melton Mowbray, LE13 0FA

There is no charge for the day, but a suggested donation of £15 will cover costs. Please bring your own lunch. Booking is essential!

Programme for the day:

- 10.00-10.15 - Welcome, introduction, worship
- 10.15-11.00 – VOICES FROM THE MARGINS
what are they saying to the church today
- 11.00-11.15 – Break
- 11.15-12.15 – HEARING VOICES
why are people leaving baptist churches and where are they going
- 12.15-13.15 – Lunch (please bring your own)
- 13.15-14.15 – SPEAKING WITH A NEW VOICE
what can baptist churches learn from the marginal voices
- 14.15-14.30 – Break
- 14.30-15.30 – RESPONDING TO THE VOICES
how can baptist churches be transformed and renewed so that they can be relevant to a new generation
- 15.30-16.00 – Final questions/comments

For more information or to book a place please contact:

Rev. Nick Ashton 01664 852292 or nick@mmbc.org.uk

Dr. Stuart Murray Williams works as a trainer and consultant under the auspices of the Anabaptist Network. Based in Bristol, he travels widely in the UK and overseas and works with local churches, mission agencies, denominational leaders, conferences and individuals. He has worked with at least 25 denominations in recent years.

